CANNABIS AND YOU!

Cannabis is a plant that contains both CBD and THC which may be helpful alleviating certain symptoms. Each person should research which plants may work best for them. Every plant contains terpenes that give the plant a particular smell or taste. Terpenes are known to work differently in each person. Learning about the plant and your symptoms may be helpful in finding the right combination for you.

When cannabis is extracted using heat, the terpenes are often removed leaving the THC behind along with solvent residue while providing the psychoactive "high". The method of freezing to extract cannabis is performed leaving NO solvent residue which allows terpenes to remain intact. Ask our Medical Technicians about the differences between distillate, rosin, resin, bubble hash, concentrates, edibles, and topicals. Come in and learn more about our cannabis and how extractions were done, if terpenes are present, and get a free terpene wheel today!
